The Barbarians Within

Though the strike of garbage collectors has ended in New York City, the nation should not soon forget this appalling example of union tyranny that exposed the country's biggest city to the threat of disease and caused a vast and rich metropolis to wallow in filth.

New York City, during the strike by the garbage collectors, was like a scene from the decline and fall of the Roman Empire. When the Roman civilization collapsed, following invasion by barbarians, the beautiful cities of antiquity became wastelands. Super aqueducts that brought fresh water from the mountains fell into a state of disrepair. Early plumbing systems that gave us sanitary conditions and good health were wrecked as a result. It was not until the 19th century that cities again equalled the sanitary conditions of municipalities in ancient Rome.

The New York garbage men's strike suggests that the clock is being turned back in our own times. America's biggest city — the one that it has been invaded by foreign barbarians. Instead, it has been invaded by its own barbarians within — men who display brutal contempt for the rights of society.

To the men who called the garbage men's strike, it apparently made no difference that the city became a pile of filth and that the conditions for epidemic were created. The rights of the people were violated with contempt by the strikers. This is increasingly the way in the United States.

A few years ago, New York City was crippled for a time by a strike of transit workers. The metropolis, which among other things served as the heart of American finance, was brought to a halt because subway workers demanded a pay raise.

The union contempt of the public interest is not limited to New York City, of course. Union tyranny threatens all 50 states and all the essential systems of our society.

While the New York garbage men's strike was in progress, trainmen called a strike against several railroads. Fortunately, this was not a prolonged strike, but it demonstrated the ability of one union to paralyze the entire system of necessary transportation facilities, to paralyze commerce and to cause inconvenience to the public.

Tragically, many officeholders, who should defend the right of the public in contests created by the union special interest, refuse to antagonize the National Guard to remove garbage from the streets of New York City when the public health was menaced. The Governor apparently didn't want to earn the enmity of powerful union leaders. The unionists had threatened a general strike if the Guard were used to clean up the city.

Perhaps it will take the occasion of a general strike to make the American public realize the outrageous abuses of power which unions practice against cities, states and the nation itself.

The United States needs fresh leadership on many great questions of the day, foreign and domestic. But nowhere is courageous leadership more imperative than in dealing with the union problem. The nation has to be brought to a halt or our society will fail, and eventually collapse in ruins.

America is the wealthiest, most advanced nation in the world, but it will not stand and strong requires inner discipline on the part of the American people. It requires that the majority of law-abiding, responsible people have the decisive voice in community and nation after the strike. The United States is dependent on the rule of law and the certainty that small groups of irresponsible, lawless people not given a franchise to wreck communities or to plunge them into a state of chaos such as existed in New York City during the garbage men's strike.

The experience in Memphis, Tennessee in this connection is far from unique. In the cities in this city, apparently encouraged by the FEA, have also gone on strike. Mayor Henry Loeb says the strike is illegal and that no distrust what do the teachers and the FEA want. If higher salaries is NOT the issue, what? How can you provide QUALITY EDUCATION if you don't show up to teach. If better supplies and textbooks is the issue, why were 30 odd cubic yards of textbooks, in Palm Beach County, destroyed?

The FEA has demanded the figure of $963,000 expenditure, per student, as necessary to give a child QUALITY EDUCATION. The United States Government allows you $300.00 to feed, clothe, house, educate and provide medical attention to a child.

Is the FEA willing to put their proposals and program before ALL the people for approval or rejection?

Quality Education

Editor
The Belle Glade Herald

Dear Sir:

In reply to your editorial OUR AMBITIOUS GOVERNOR I would like to say that Governor Kirk is the first governor in many years that has been able to do something for the people. He did leave Tallahassee, but only after he had exceeded the special session of the legislature, after he had offered a $400 million education bill, and after he had, in my opinion, gone more than half way to meet the demands of the FEA.

The Democratic controlled legislature reduced and COMPROMISED this bill to $254 million dollars, not the Governor.

The Governor had campaigned on a platform of no new taxes, but he had to order his word, he put a STRING ON his bill — allow the people to vote on whether or not to put another tax burden on themselves. I personally appreciate the STRING-attached.

Just what do the teachers and the FEA want. If higher salaries is NOT the issue, what? How can you provide QUALITY EDUCATION if you don't show up to teach. If better supplies and textbooks is the issue, why were 30 odd cubic yards of textbooks, in Palm Beach County, destroyed?

The FEA has demanded the figure of $963,000 expenditure, per student, as necessary to give a child QUALITY EDUCATION. The United States Government allows you $300.00 to feed, clothe, house, educate and provide medical attention to a child.

The government are private before the consumer tries to protect the consumer from misleading advertising. "Truth in Advertising" legislation of variegated hue is being widely sponsored.

It is significant that the main enterprises concerned with advertising are yet concerned about the need of keeping the consumer from being misled.

Retailers and newspapers are the nation's major advertisers and the most widely used medium.

Retailers and newspapers welcome any effort to keep advertising honest.

Both of these local businesses operate under the assumption that advertising must be true. The consumer, newspaper and the local retailer suffer when advertising is misleading.

No newspaper publisher is so naive that he believes his friends and neighbors will maintain trust in a newspaper which knowingly prints falsehoods. Every retailer knows that he can be held to account for dishonest claims in printed advertising.

Printed advertising is a permanent record of what is said. The retailer knows only too well that the consumer is likely to bring a newspaper advertisement with him to check on specific promises. The publisher knows that the public and the law hold him responsible for everything he prints.

Of course misleading advertising exists in almost every medium in which it can be checked for proof or held accountable locally. It may be found in broadcast media and in non-local printed matter. However, when it appears in local newspaper advertising, misleading advertising is an oversight or an accident.

The local newspaper and the retailer are eager to learn of the misleading advertising. Both gain by correcting it.

The Farm Front

By Doyle Conner,
Commissioner of Agriculture

According to a recent survey by the Urban Land Institute, Florida is expected to have a population of seven and one-half million people by 1975.

By the end of this century, our population is expected to nearly double to an expected 14 million.

The Florida region, experts say, will become one of the three most urban zones by the year 2000.

As Commissioner of Agriculture for a state which is rapidly assuming a more important role in the production of food for a hungry world, I find these predictions very disturbing.

As our agricultural production increases to meet the predicted rising demand, so will the need for an almost unlimited supply of clean water.

Florida has one of the highest rates of pollution of any state in the union.

Like our sister 49 states, Florida has submitted water quality standards to the federal government, in accordance with the 1965 federal Water Quality Act.

The goal of water quality management is to provide the optimum use of our waters for human consumption, recreation, industry, agriculture, the welfare of fish and wildlife and for other beneficial and legitimate purposes.

There is no alternative to pollution control water. If Florida agriculture is to meet its responsibilities, the overall welfare of the world food production must be maintained.

We must have a clean, undiluted supply of water, if we are to reach this goal and maintain today's high standard of living, as well as meet the environmental needs of the human environment for the future.

Florida is growing more rapidly than any state in the nation. We are now the ninth most populous state, with nearly 10 million residents.

Consumers' popularity of meat, human consumption has a minimal effect on water levels, conservation experts insist. The local problems, which have little relation to the national picture can be a major factor in causing temporary shortages.

At the present time, for example, Southern Florida is experiencing low water tables, although it continues to have some of the heaviest rainfall in the country.

The problem facing South Florida is the lack of facilities to keep rain from running into the sea before it has a chance to soak into the ground.

The difficulty in insuring local water systems has its roots in politics, too. Some local water boards are hesitant — and some others are refusing — legislation that would mean raising local taxes to clean up their systems.

Yet, more and more, our beautiful rivers and lakes are being polluted by industrial wastes, our forest lands and foliage destroyed through carelessness.

Taking a negative approach, federal officials say this is something that drought helps to cure. If a regional water shortage occurs, the public will scramble, then put up with temporary water restrictions as best it can.

But if one town cannot get water, while a neighboring town has a plentiful supply, that publication is instantaneous and action generally follows.

Last spring, South Florida experienced its worst drought in 20 years. The drought was brought on by what weather experts cited in the amount of rain received in the months of April and May in south Florida during the past several years.

No matter what the cause, the lack of water resulted in losses of several hundred of head of cattle and millions of dollars in crop production.

Citrus plantings also were severely damaged in the drought area, as were other fruits and vegetables.

During this same period, the wheat belt barely escaped drought and a spring freeze, which laid bare 13 million acres and destroyed 20 percent of the nation's winter wheat crop seeded last year.

Programmatic could have a long way in preventing these crippling losses to our agriculture.

On a national scale, we are expected to use more than 325 billion gallons of water a day by 1980. By 2000, probably more than 900 billion gallons.

Water will account for most of the total usage, primarily for consumption by livestock, in processing foods and for irrigation purposes.

In Florida, the citrus industry alone uses an estimated average of 122 billion gallons of water each year.

This is the amount for intensive irrigation of only one-half the state's total of 750,000 acres of citrus grovelands.

In Polk County alone, the citrus industry uses more citrus than the state of California — "peak" irrigation takes place six times each year and consumes 24 billion, 438 million, 600 thousand gallons of water.

The Pushover...

Perhaps the Pushover is getting angry, or at least is annoyed. The United States is one of eight countries in South Korea. There are 185 jets. This buildup has cost us some measure of security in other parts of the world, but perhaps it will convince the North Koreans that Uncle Sam really wants his boat back.

What will happen if the North Koreans won't release the captured crew of the Pueblo? They say they'll go to war with us. The United States cannot afford to lose men and material to fight another "limited" war in the far east, so our only alternative is an all out nuclear war that would wipe out the human race.

Why is it that we are so short of alternatives when we are being blackmailed by a small communist country like North Korea? The reasons for this are simple, we have for several years been led to believe that we were winning in Vietnam, and that we could save face by cutting back our reserves, by limiting the military on their spending and by basing our strategy on our Atomic arms stockpile.

History will prove that the American people were misled by the Johnson administration on all of these counts, while they padded payrolls, and over-spent on the military, cutting down on welfare programs. If we were to go to war tomorrow with North Korea our troops there would be ill equipped to fight as they were in 1951 and I'm afraid they would suffer the same tragic fate. The same men that made the decisions that has caused the United States to be called a "Pushover" are the same men that will cause the end of the human race for political reasons.

Personal, Mister Editor, I'll have to admit that I'm not the type to write to the paper about new homes for sale that had "large woodburning fireplaces." I didn't know they was anything else to burn in a fireplace. And I was reading where some famous Biblical scholars said we needed a "moral threat" more believable than hell." If the coming generations don't believe in hell it's going to be a dangerous world.

Helpful Hints

Q. What's the difference between perfume and cologne? Should they be applied in the same?

A. Perfume is the most concentrated, lasting form of fragrance. Apply it on pulse points: wrists, temples, hairline, collar, etc. Better be careful, though, on spots that will send fragrant whiffs up to you — such as on the base of your throat or the tip of your nose! Cologne is another, i.e., a concentrated version of perfume, and may be used lavishly. Splash it on after bath or shower. Sprinkle a few drops on your pillow case. Spray it on your hair, hand, etc., before leaving it — especially when it's an evening of dancing ahead. The boys will love it!

Q. How can I make my perfume last throughout the evening? It always fades before my date is over.

A. Fragrance must be refreshed as often as other cosmetics. And it's easy, if you carry a perfume bottle with you wherever you go.

Touch up your fragrance when you powder your nose and reapply lipstick during the evening. Many wonderful perfumes are available in handy on-the-spot use perfume mist, in a sophisticated golden flacon.

Water Shortage Reaching Critical

Actions to conserve fresh water supplies in view of a widespread impending drought in South Florida were approved today by the Governing Board of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, meeting at West Palm Beach.

"We are in a much more critical situation now than last year at this time," said Robert W. Padrick, of Fort Pierce, Board chairman.

Lake Okeechobee is more than two feet below the level desired at this time of year, it was explained by Ed Dall, executive director. One year ago on this date the Lake was only one foot below schedule, but a serious drought occurred in the spring.

Padrick praised officials of Everglades National Park who informally agreed to a plan to make exchanges into the Park from Conservation Areas 3 and 5, and to start transferring Lake Okeechobee water into the Conservation Areas. This plan was approved by the FCD Board Friday.

Stopping the flow of water from the Lake, Lake Okeechobee shore, has farming interests by conserving more water, Padrick said. At the same time, the National Park should be helped by the cutback of flow from 150 to 100 cubic feet per second at spillways 1 and 2. This will make possible prolonged releases of water into the Park this spring.

It was predicted that south Florida might enter a "critical period" starting in mid-March, unless above normal rainfall occurs. Last year the critical period started in mid-April, according to William Storch, chief engineer for the FCD.

Water conditions in the conservation areas and the National Park are relatively good for this time of year, due to above normal rainfall last fall. But Lake Okeechobee is particularly low due to lack of rainfall in the basin areas draining into the Lake.

HONESTY

Honesty means being truthful in every way. The honest man deals justly with others, but the dishonest man fails somehow to give others their just due. Honesty is sometimes restricted to justice in speech and business transactions. But it also means fairness in all its acts.

In private life, a man is honest in speech and manner when he tells the truth and avoids lying. He takes every opportunity for honest and dishonest action. Dishonesty occurs in business life when the tradesman gives short measure or the advertiser represents his product or the merchant makes a false tax return. Government officials are under pressure to make honest decisions. Citizens encourage honesty when they support better government programs.

Honest action builds confidence and respect for a person. More integrity in people motivates them to be just in their actions.

Honesty can also lead to honor. When we say that a person is "a man of honor," we pay him a compliment. We think that everyone should have a strong sense of humor; and we often say that everyone should know that when honor is lost, all is lost.

Honesty may mean a specific request that a person because he has certain qualities of character or has accomplished certain things. Has you ever said "I'd like to honor you, but we cannot deny the fact that when honor is lost, all is lost."

VIVIAN BERRY

Vivian Berry has been chosen as Bandman of the Week by the band director, Willie Pyfrom, for her incomparable efforts to make the marching Bobcats' Band safe a success. Vivian is the one who makes sure that you consider how hard represents his product or the merchant makes a false tax return. Government officials are under pressure to make honest decisions. Citizens encourage honesty when they support better government programs.

LOCAL HOSPITAL PARTICIPANT IN AA BLOOD BANK

The Glades General Hospital Blood Banks is now a participant in the National Clearinghouse Program of the American Association of Blood Banks. It was announced by that Association this week. This provides a new link in a reciprocal net work of nearly 400 blood banks and drawing stations throughout the United States.

In welcoming the bank to the program, Dr. John A. Shively, president of the AABB, Chairman of the AABB National Clearinghouse Program, pointed out that blood is a perishable which must be utilized within 21 days. This program also makes it convenient for individuals to use blood donations but it helps to conserve the nation's blood surplus by arranging for interbank shipments. Last year, over 300,000 blood replacements were channelled through replacements can be made at any participating bank in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, and transferred through the clearinghouse program for patients receiving blood transfusions locally. Similarly, blood donations for transfer to patients in more than 2,800 hospitals in other parts of the country can be made at the Glades General Hospital blood bank.

Mrs. Bertrice M. Hemphill, Chairman of the AABB National Clearinghouse Program, stated this is one of the most important services a bank can render for the benefit of its donors and patients.

The purpose of the AABB program is to facilitate the borrowing and lending of blood to alleviate unavoidable shortages and surplus, and to enable the exchange of donor replacement credits between banks. This means that blood replacements can be made at any participating bank in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, and transferred through the clearinghouse program for patients receiving blood transfusions locally. Some of the new equipment manufactured by Stuart's Farm Service Incorporated in Canal Point, Fla. is shown at work in these pictures.

The Pelican Pump, which is a portable pump powered from the P.T.O. of a tractor, is designed to fit into any type of canal with only one man operating the tractor. These pumps can be used to flood fields, fight muck fires and irrigate crops. Mr. Stuart says he has a lot of these pumps in the fields working and they are proving to be real money savers for the farmers.

The overhead type irrigation unit has proved to be real popular in the grove industry with some leaf crop growers using them in this area. Mr. Stuart states there is over 200 of these units being used every day in the grove industry around Indian town and the Loxahatchee area.

Mr. Stuart believes the method of how to irrigate the Glades muck land is a growing concern among the area farmers. He says with the Pelican Pump approach a farmer can control his water and irrigate cheaper than has ever been done before.

If you have an irrigation or water control problem, call Stuart's Farm Service in Canal Point and discuss with them their method of handling it.

Some firms using the Pelican Pump are 715 Farms, Closter Farms, U. S. Sugar Corp., JHW Farms, East Gate Farms, HMA Farms, Minute Maid Co., and Food Fair Grove Corp.

Challancin Enters Flight School

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)— Naval Reserve Ensign James F. Challancin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Challancin of South Bay, Fla., was commissed an officer in the Naval Reserve on completion of the Aviation Officer Candidate Course at the Naval Aviation Schools Command, Pensacola, Fla.

The intensive 11-week course of training included instruction in Naval tactics and affairs, Naval justice, leadership and orientation, physical fitness, swimming, effective communications, pre-navigation seamanship and military instruction.

He will now enter the flight preparation school at the Naval Aviation Schools Command to continue his training under the Naval Aviation Program.

to be the "best ever" and the hot breads too for "Mrs. Mac" and the students and their parents and their faithful helpers who will be on hand to give the professional touches. A wide selection of home-made cakes will provide the dessert. The ham dinner is being offered on a pick-up basis so those unable to attend in person may still participate by sending in their plates.

It goes without saying that the cause for which the dinner is being given is a worthy one—Air Conditioning. Approximately two-thirds of the Belle Glade Elementary School classrooms now enjoy the convenience of air conditioning and it is hopefully anticipated that the job may be completed by the close of the present school year. This is just one of the benefits being planned for the cause.

Equal Rights

Donations are $1.50 for a ticket to the dinner. If you have not yet secured your tickets you may call 596-3423 or 596-6753, and remember that the dinner will be served in the new cafeteria of the Junior High School.
